COMMUNITY CENTRE

Proctor and Matthews are architects for the redevelopment of the original farm buildings on the Newhall site. This requires the sensitive adaptation of the existing seventeenth and nineteenth century agricultural structures together with the addition of new, contemporary structures to create a community hub.

This will house a mix of uses including a community hall, performance space, gallery, conference and office facilities, retail and (at a future date) a restaurant. Two courtyard spaces provide for everyday activities as well as local events and festivities. The proposal forms the southern edge of a new commercial and retail sector.
